JUST A THOUGHT - In my experience, it is those who don't accept absolutes who are the very people who try to manipulate you. I think that when you don't believe in absolutes, you come under the tyranny of subjective emotions and stances; and because they have no logical basis, it seems that you don't argue about things, and the only way you can make somebody do what you want is by force or manipulation.
(Graham Leonard – Bishop of London 1981-1992. Catholic convert 1994 - 2010).
